The houses on Harrison Street should be re-numbered. The Township Committee adopted the plan of numbering from east to west and south to north. This rule was not carried out on the above street, but the direct opposite.

Daniel Sleish and Joseph Matthews, the long distance bicycle riders of the Second Ward Republican Club, have entered for the century run of the Central Union School District No. 7. The reports show 231 children of school age, an increase of 207 over last year.

On Decoration Day at Worcester, Mass., a beautiful tribute was placed on the grave of Frank G. Tower, who died December last in Bloomfield. The tribute was furnished by Essex Hook and Ladder Company, of which Mr. Tower was an original member.

Charles L. Warren, of Hoyt's "A Stranger in New York" Company, arrived home yesterday. Mr. Warren has been with Mr. Hoyt for nine years past. The season just finished has been a most successful one, in direct contrast with other theatrical companies.

The State Board of Medical Examiners of New Jersey were in session at the State House, Trenton, during the week and examined sixty-eight applications for doctor's degrees. This number included Grace White, daughter of Dr. White of Franklin Street.

Two well known young men became engaged in a fight last night on the Harrison Street bridge over the canal. They fought on the bridge, fought in the water and fought on the shore. The ducking failed to cool the anger of the two combatants, but the warning, "Constable Daily is coming" sent them flying.

The Alerts have secured Westlake of the Woodside base ball club to cover third base, and Smith of Belleville, captain of the Newark Academy nine, to catch. Little has resigned as captain of the Alerts and Work has been elected in his place.

To-morrow at 3:30 the Alerts play St. Bartholomew's club of New York at the home grounds on Bay Avenue. Next Saturday, the 26th, the Alerts play the Watessing base ball club at Watessing.

NEW JERSEY LEADING NEWS-PAPER.

A Publication that Covers a Field Occupied by No Other Daily Print.

Among the newspapers of New Jersey the Newark Evening News occupies the leading position. It is a State as well as a local newspaper. At all important cities and towns in New Jersey it has regular correspondents. No other journal has such well-organized facilities and makes so strong an effort to gather from all parts of the State the news that is of greatest interest to New Jersey readers.

To politics the NEWS is entirely independent. It is a journal that is not controlled by public men and the acts of political parties and public bodies. It supports the men and the principles that it believes promise best for the people's interests.

It is a member of the Associated Press, the NEWS has the best facilities that the country affords for collecting the news of the world. It receives the same telegraph service as the best New York evening papers. Telegraph instruments in its office bring to it the news of the country and of foreign lands up to the moment when the editions go to press. It has the best telegraph service in the country, and in all the other cities it is prompt to secure special service when intelligence of interest to New Jersey is to be gathered.

The NEWS is in all respects a paper for the family and the home. Care is exercised in the literary department of the paper. Some of the best writers of the country contribute original matter to its pages. Scientific subjects, popularly treated, are made features. New short stories are contributed by noted authors, and all the brightest and best thought from the current periodicals find a place in the paper's pages.

The NEWS is mailed to subscribers in all parts of the country at the rate of fifty cents a month, $1.50 for three months, or $5 a year, payable in advance.

L. A. W. Notes.

Application blanks for membership in the L. A. W. may be obtained from Arthur Kinsler, Local Council, Bloomfield Post Office.

Dr. Power says that "the horse-drawn carriage is a menace." He ran it from Springfield to Montclair, the longest day's run, being seventy miles. He says: "That day I was tired, but the carriage was not." No difficulty was found in hill climbing, and a speed of fifteen miles an hour could be maintained. Two head lights can be used at night, and a whistle and gong are provided to give warning of its approach, which is quite necessary, as it is useless in operating and weighs 1,200 pounds.

Two young ladies of Montclair had an experience the other day on a broken axle coming down from Yonkers. The chain parted, and as there was no brake, quick action was necessary. The one on the back stepped off and thus threw the machine over, luckily without injury to wheel or rider. We would advise that a brake on this wheel was very necessary.

The decision of Justice Collins of Westfield "that cycling on Sunday for pleasure is against the law," deserves to be placed with those of that ancient Dagobert who flourished in Shakespeare's time. The announcement that an appeal will be taken, so that a higher court can pass on this, is a proper thing to do. We wish the individual had been a member of the L. A. W., so that the man could be pushed, but it is now, and he will have to pay the expenses, he may look out.

Among the recent applicants for membership in the League of American Wheelmen were Governor Hughes and his private secretary, Lewis E. Heiler.

Connecticut wheelmen have requested the passage of a bill, similar to the one in this State. The Pennsylvania division with the Philadelphia unit to adopt at all distances requiring all vehicles to carry a light at night, so bicyclists do not.

From all the active preparations that are being made by the committee having in charge the details of the Bicycle Carnival that is to be held at Long Branch Sunday, July 17th, the affair promises to be the greatest bicycle event of the year. All the leading bicycle clubs of New York, Brooklyn and New Jersey will take part in the parade, together with a large military contingent from New York and New Jersey, as well as bicycle police in all the States. At night the whole place will be brilliantly illuminated. A grand bicycle ball will be given, and a general good time is promised to all visiting wheelmen and wheelwomen.

Palmists.

Do not ever try to notice

Each man speaking to his sphere,

Do not then ever try to notice

Every moment, every year?

Do not then ever think of patience

In the hours of toil and care,

Do not then ever think of having

God who created nothing in vain?

Make thy life a gem unspun,

Make it shine in God's own light,

Shed a radiance through the world,

That surround a mortal's life.

All the Sane.

At one of our large north country churches recently a fashionably dressed lady happened to go into one of the private pews.

The vergor, who is known to be a very stern old chap, immediately bawled out to her and said:

"I'm afraid, miss, you'll have to cum out o' that. This is a paid pew."

"Sir," said the young lady, turning sharply round, do you know who I am?

"I'm a care," said the old man, "if you are the big drum, you'll have to cum out."

A Critic of Durer.

A woman visitor to the Durer collection on exhibition in New York had the present day assurance to criticize this old master as follows: "One can but notice how modeling, at least, has grown into an exact science, and what a difference there is between such figures as Durer's and that of any bright young art student nowadays. Why, the flesh seems to hang in bunches upon his nudes. One would think that they were all afflicted with tumors."

One of the British Medical association delegates contends that every cow should be examined by a veterinary surgeon and marked before being admitted to the dairy and its milk sold.

It appears from the testimony of Gervase, the monk of Canterbury, who flourished about the year 1200, that organs were introduced more than 100 years before this time.

Composers Tours.

English papers announce the death, after a long illness, of Berthold Tours, the well known musician and composer. Mr. Tours was a Dutchman by birth, having been born in Rotterdam in 1828. He studied at Leipzig and Brussels, went to England in 1861 and for a good many years served as a violinist in the orchestra. For the last 15 years, however, he had occupied the responsible post of reader and editor to the great firm of Novello & Co., in which capacity he did an immense amount of useful work in the "reduction" of orchestral scores to their pianoforte form. He was also a voluminous composer of graceful violin pieces, songs, hymn tunes, anthems and church services.
